Two Marvels Caught By Eye-Camera

Here are two marvels at engineering caught in one flash of the eye-camera. The Empress of Japan, Queen of the Pacific, is seen passing under the splendid new bridge now under construction across the First Narrows, the entrance to Vancouver's landlocked harbor. The mainmast of the vessel is 185 feet above her load line, the bridge being 100 feet above high spring tides. The Canadian Pacific Line Empress of Japan, in addition to holding all the speed records on her Canada, Hawaii, Orient run is the largest ship entering Vancouver harbor. The illustration clearly shows the magnitude and the beauty of both ship and bridge.

Prairie Farmers Optimistic Over Season Forecast

Growing Conditions Start Better This Year Than Since 1928—Frequent Rains Give Great Aid To Agriculture. By G. M. BATEMAN. Canadian Press Staff Writer. WINNIPEG, July 2.—Prairie farmers optimistically look forward this year of one of the best wheat crops since the bumper production of 541,508,000 bushels in 1928. Even lower prices, 30 cents under a year ago, failed to bring discouragement especially in southern Saskatchewan, plagued by drought for seven years but this year covered with vegetation.

More Rains Cry of West Grain Fields

General Conditions Are Considered Favorable. WINNIPEG, July 2.—General crop conditions in the west continue favorable although with grain in the crucial condition of heading out it is still needing more rain, especially in central Saskatchewan. This is according to the bulletins comprising the Canadian Pacific railway weekly report issued from the agricultural department today. Most of the wheat is in stubble and earlier sown crops have attained anything to 30 inches in height.

Government Opposed to Military Establishments Not Owned

BENNETT AND KING DEBATE ARMED BASES

Prime Minister Challenges Opposition Leader Test Public Opinion

By C. R. McKEACHIE
Canada from last week
OTTAWA, July 2.—Canada's government opposes the setting up in this country of any military establishment not owned and controlled by the dominion. Prime Minister Mackenzie King challenged R. B. Bennett, opposition leader, to test public opinion in a general election on this issue.

The prime minister declared that long ago, before British naval stations and military garrisons had been withdrawn from Canada, the prime minister had said that no military establishments except those of the dominion.

NO FORMAL REQUEST
His government had not received a formal request from the British government for permission to establish a Royal Air Force training establishment in Canada, the prime minister said, but he was sure that if such a request would be refused.

This statement would not apply in a case of armed war, the prime minister qualified. At such a time it might be necessary for a Canadian ally to establish forces in his country.

Mr. Bennett bitterly assailed the government for this attitude. He said that the government had established up and declared by what would be if it were "the worst I ever witnessed in this house with the last breath in my body."

TRUSTS MACKENZIE
Mr. Bennett testified Hon. J. M. MacKenzie, minister of national defence, for having promised the British navy would be Canadian main defence. Despite that the prime minister was doing this to give the right to establish in Canada essential training facilities in which could have been developed at home.

When the prime minister went to go to the country with his announced policy on military establishments, he said that he was sure that Mr. Bennett immediately replied that he was ready. THIRDS SPEECH
The final act of the session was the reading of the speech from the throne by the deputy governor-general. It expressed the royal indignation with the United States would result in a comprehensive trade agreement.

These regulations, proceeding for the past three months, were the result of the government's decision to suspend the operation of the Immigration Act, and were the cause of the heated debate in the House of Commons.

Mr. Justice Cannon gave notice to suspend 20, 19, of their private law, and the House adjourned.

The officers were government ministers. They included the minister of national defence, the minister of justice, the minister of agriculture, and the minister of commerce.

WHEAT BOARD TO CONTINUE THIS SEASON

Minimum Price For Wheat For 1938 Crop Will Be Fixed

OTTAWA, July 2.—Continuation of the Canadian wheat board and the fixing of a minimum price at a reasonable time for the 1938 crop was assured in the House of Commons before adjournment by Hon. W. D. Fisher, trade minister.

The price, he fixed had not been settled. Mr. Fisher said, and neither had it been decided whether the Canadian wheat board should be prohibited from buying and selling wheat at a certain level as has been the case for the past two years.

ONE-MAN BLOCKADE
The minister made his statement as Hon. W. R. Mowbray (Lib.-Mtl) asked a one-man blockade on all imports of $100,000 for remaining expenses of the Turgenev grain commission on grain and grain marketing. Mr. Mowbray joined with Conservative members in asking the government to provide for the cost of the blockade.

From Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative, came a question to the government to give him a list to take action to test the wheat board. Mr. Fisher said that he would provide for the cost of the blockade.

He declared the order negated the Wheat Board Act in which parliament had blocked the Japanese advance from Senzan against Taiwan.

KING DISPUTES

The speech from the throne indicated that it was the intention of the government to complete the organization at an early date. To-day's announcement indicates that an active campaign of education will be carried on during the summer and fall.

Major and Minor Notes

Two years ago a 26-year-old British musician, who has become widely known in his own native England and who had attracted wide attention by reason of his success with the Scottish Orchestra, crossed the Atlantic to become conductor of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, the first of five or six conductors looked to lead the orchestra for the season—the first season of its activities after it and Arturo Toscanini for a decade or more. His conductor had been the parting of the ways. His name—John Barbirolli, whose grandfather had played in the orchestra of the La Scala opera house in Milan, at the same time Toscanini was a member of its celli section.

Barbirolli had been warned before crossing the Atlantic that the masterful men of the Philharmonic used to play under all the most famous conductors and each an artist in his own right would "cut the heart" out of him. Barbirolli came on a 10 weeks trial and before that period was up the Board of Directors had announced signing him for three years as permanent conductor. The mighty men of the Philharmonic had not cut out his heart. They had taken him to their hearts, as had the New York public.

Taking up the baton had down by the greatest conductor of this age, was a formidable task for Barbirolli. And now, after one complete season at the helm, in addition to his part-season contract two years ago, his position in the hearts of New York musicians and the Philharmonic is more secure than ever.

When Barbirolli came, the Philharmonic season had been cut to 24 weeks and the pay of the men had been reduced by 15 per cent. New York flunked to hear the orchestra under him.

The men of the Philharmonic played as they had not played for a long time. The result? Well, here it is. Barbirolli's contract still has ten years to run and is subject of course, to renewal. In the meantime, last season, Carnegie Hall found the "Standing Room Only" and "Sold Right Out" signs hung up in front of the concert for the first time in many years. New pay cuts have been restored, a new contract has been signed with the musicians for two years, which brings the season up to 26 weeks. Barbirolli took over in a 24 weeks season. Last year with the increased attendance, it was increased to 28 weeks and next season it will be for 30 weeks and in addition, we men are assured of eight additional weeks playing at summer concerts in the Lewisohn Stadium. An official statement says that "Under John Barbirolli's direction there has been a consistent increase in the attendance and it was this fact that enables the society to agree to a further lengthening of the season."

Barbirolli, so kind, has his detractors and specialists a cult who can see no further than this or that particular conductor. But he has succeeded, even in the face of opposition from one or two "muck-rack" New York critics. It must call these gentlemen to watch the record file enjoyed by the Philharmonic and its every

HOOPER HOOKS FISH IN LAKE CARIBOO AREA

CANIM LAKE, B.C. July 2.—Former President Herbert Hoover of the United States and party spent Dominion Day, Canada's national holiday, fishing in the Cariboo district lake, 200 miles north of Vancouver.

On a two-week British Columbia hunting and fishing trip which will take them to Fort St. James and Stuart Lake, another 250 miles north, the party moved here from Clinton today.

Hoover was accompanied by Dr. Ray Leman Wilson, president of Stanford University, Arthur M. Hyde, assistant United States secretary of agriculture, and A. L. Hager, Vancouver business man.

In the Turner Valley of the province of Alberta, Canada, crude oil production is 10,000 barrels daily, in addition to 2,000 barrels of naphtha daily.

Here, revealed the musical profundity of the students, who also displayed much technical facility and genuine talent. Betty Hagen, seven-year-old violinist and pupil of Alexander Nott, accompanied by Jean Engstrom, seven-year-old pianist, of the audience, were awarded 100, with six votes.

People taking part under the direction of Mrs. Carstairs, were: Len Wolfe, Alan Graham, Jack Kilgour, Margaret Campbell, Jack Wolfe, J. R. Miller, Shirley McDonald, Catherine Verry, Mary Verry, Mary Brainer, Frances Thompson, Evan Wolfe, Dorothy Moon and Gwen Seller.

What's New On The ... RECORDS

BEING A REVIEW OF THE BEST NOW BEING TRANSCRIBED FOR GRAMOPHONES

By JOHN OLIVER

Recent records from RCA Victor, contained in the latest partridge, include selections of a widely varied character and admirably contained as far as appeal to many tastes.

Of late a name growing more familiar on records is that of Herb McDonald. He has conducted the University of Pennsylvania Choral Society for records and now, in the latest lot of records, he appears in the role of composer.

He is not entirely new to records as a composer as, in the past, the Philadelphia Orchestra, has recorded one movement from his Rumba Symphony.

Now, the same estimable organization plays two of a series of three House Poems that Eugene O'Neill, who conducts the Philadelphia Orchestra in the playing of them, during his first season as conductor of the orchestra.

Several themes are constructed on several themes and are scored for orchestra in a reserved, dignified manner. They are pleasant to listen, with convincing profundity and serious meaning. The Philadelphia make the most of them and the recording is a masterpiece.

The themes for the poems were delivered by the composer in the course of melodic researches. The themes made use of here of Herbert and Armande, some of great antiquity. While the themes themselves are of ancient origin, the composer has treated and developed

Who Are We to Say? and Sun-Up to Sun-Down and the other includes Soldiers of Fortune and Sonnets. With Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy has been achieving unusual success in their latest picture.

One reason for this is the excellent music provided by the ever-reliable Romberg, whose light opera successes are numerous. For this picture he wrote a dozen or so songs, all of which have met with no little approval. Eddy has selected four of the most melodious and most popular for these two records. The records will appeal especially to those who have seen, or who contemplate seeing the picture, but for those who do not, they will be sufficiently attractive on their own account.

Yehudi Menuhin, brilliant young violinist re-appears in the record lists with a performance of Kreisler's arrangement of Dvorak's Slavonic Dance No. 12 in E Major, opus 72.

No. 10 and the Joachim arrangement of Brahms' Hungarian Dance No. 4, in B Minor, the original having been in F sharp Minor.

REAL FAVORITES Here are two popular concert favorites and as is only to be expected of an artist of Menuhin's standing and ability, the performance is delightful. Both in tone quality and musicianship, this double-sided Red Seal record is a notable contribution to the list of records on the record.

The only possible shortcoming of this is that the artist might have left himself a little and sacrificed a layer of polish for a little more verve, dash and abandon. However, as it stands the record lacks very little. Marcel Gubelin provides first rate accompaniment.

War and romance are happily combined in two double sided records by Nelson Eddy, baritone, who sings four songs from Sigmond Romberg's music to The Girl of the Golden West. One record features

All People's Mission Plans Annual Kiddies' Camp

Fresh Air Camp Will Again Brighten The Lives Of Underprivileged Children

Supplying an ever-increasing need in giving camping privileges to hundreds of city families who otherwise would not be able to enjoy a week of sunshine, good bathing, and healthy invigoration of open air, All People's Mission camp, Lake Wabamun, will again this year be in continual session with a full program of camp activities lasting on into August.

Fringing the shores of moonlight Bay, Wabamun, the camp is one of the finest in the province. Boys and girls, and their parents have enjoyed facilities for swimming, boating, fishing and other aspects of camping life for many years. Many of the simple crafts of the wilderness, of the seashore and knowledge of Nature's ways which were necessities for the comfort of the earlier settlers, are practiced with keen enjoyment at this training camp by boys and girls campers who through the stirring efforts of camp director Rev. J. T. Stephens and his helpers have been able in the past to enjoy camping privileges which they would otherwise be without.

FINE EQUIPMENT

All People's Mission, Fresh Air Camp, boasts some of the finest camp equipment. A large pavilion, set just away from the camp, surrounded by poplar, spruce, and birch trees, provides most accommodation for hundreds of campers every year. With a well-lit kitchen at the back, the pavilion is used as a utility camp for the gathering place in wet weather. A beautiful stone fireplace, decorated with Indian ware, diamond wares, and other articles of camp production, enhances the white appearance of the dining room and gives it a more comfortable home atmosphere, which adds itself to the best purpose when the mothers and infants take over the site for a week of summer sunshine.

Sleeping facilities are now of the best, too. Cabins were erected last year providing accommodation for all campers. A level stretch of land is used for baseball, volleyball and other group games. Wading along the lake shore, bordered by native grass with a yellow canopy overhead, a path leads to the open air chapel, where seated in one big circle, campers gather on Sunday for morning service. A rustic pulpit is surrounded by myriads of staves of various sizes, on each of which is written the name of a former camper. A little farther back in the thick woods is the council ring, where the chief and medicine men preside over the highly camped. Swimming and boating are the natural sequence is somewhat a larger number than the camp has handled before, additional funds for supplies are urgently needed so that no one will be disappointed.

The usual string of summer camps will be started on July 8 when boys will start themselves on the site. Rev. J. T. Stephens, director for all the summer camps on the site, will be assisted at this camp by leaders of Russell Boys groups. The annual girls' camp will follow from July 15 to 22. Assistant Mr. Stephens will be regular G.O.T. leaders from Russell church. Additional leaders will be on hand from Beverly and Buchanan churches for both boys and girls camps. As in other years, Mrs. N. George will be camp cook and general assistant. Mrs. Stephens will be camp nurse and mother.

Among the numerous few who have ventured to define "marriage" was the witty Sydney Smith, whose effort reads as follows:

"Marriage resembles a pair of shoes, as distinct that they cannot be separated, often mortifying in people dissatisfied, yet always upon taking any one who comes between them."

NO CHARGE
Unlike other camps in the province, All People's Mission Camp provides camping equipment free of charge for children and grown-ups who would not otherwise have the same. The camp is financed each year through donations from citizens of this city. Four to five hundred camp applications have already been received and as this to splendid water facilities with swimming instruction and life-saving training being given by competent teachers each year, the non-swimmers and others also tending.

DILL TEMPERS

Cut a slice from one end of each dill pickle. Remove the centre of each with the apple corer. Stand one end on a cloth or paper towel to drain off excess liquid. Fill cavity with a finely chopped pickle, and pack firmly. Chill in ice and use in 1-2 inch slices to serve.

PICKLE AND CARROT SALAD

(Serves 6)

Three-fourths cup finely chopped sweet pickle, 1 cup shredded carrots, 1 cup finely sliced celery, 1 package lemon gelatin. Dissolve gelatin. Place pickles in bottom of mold, add 1-4 of gelatin and let set. Repeat process, using celery and let set until firm. Serve with combined cooked and mayonnaise dressing.

PEPPERMINT STICK ICE CREAM

(Serves 8)

One-half pound peppermint candy, 1 cup milk, 2 cups water. Boil candy in water, stirring until melting. Whip cream, whipped 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Scald milk and dissolve candy in hot milk. Cool. Add to whipped cream and also add vanilla. Mix well. Pour in refrigerator freezer; tray and freeze.

SUPPER Open house tomato soup, in juice and carrot salad, sliced ham, hot biscuits, Lady Baltimore cake, stewed cherries, red hot milk.

P.O. PACKET SHIPS

Julius Caesar is alleged to have organized such a perfect system of couriers that one letter from Britain to Caesars reached Rome in twenty-eight days. The courier crossing the channel to Gaul and thence by "packet ship," the Roman galley with one sail and one pulled mostly by oars.

We find nothing further in the way of a real British post office packet until about the reign of James I., when de Quaresne, the "postmaster," organized a system of sending letters abroad. Letters seem to have been sent by any ship that was available in the early seventeenth century.

The Post Office chose Palomares as the house port for mail boats running to Spain—the second ship of their age. This was in 1660, and the packets were small craft, ranging from under 100 to 150 tons. They were not fast by speed, and brought more than one battle with enemies of Britain.

The stout and handsome craft of the East India Company—the post-and Royal Mail steamers of the 1840-50s had long queer peddle boxes, belted-up funnels and funnels.

Small and slow steam boats crossed the channel in the 1820's, but were very greatly improved by 1860, the "Gladstone" of the Glasgow and Belfast Co. was one of the fastest ships of her day. Her length was 260 feet and she could steam at fully twenty miles an hour.

The "Union" of the Cunard line was a noted record-breaker of the 80's. She could do 20 knots and was over 700 tons. It is interesting to compare this vessel with the "Normandie" with her "clipper" bow and "cruiser" stern.

From the Palomares packets to ships like this was a long road, but it has been. That has led the way. Many have sacrificed their lives to the sea, but the great might reach their destination.

DOROTHY DIX Says:

THERE is no other human being in the world who so richly deserves to have something drastic done to her as the woman who boasts that she always says just what she thinks.

You number her among your acquaintances unless you have been particularly friendly with her. She is the woman who tells you that you are getting fat or showing your age, or that your hair is thinning, or that your skin is too dry, or that your teeth are yellow, or that your house or garden, or that they are badly arranged and that you should have a landscape gardener or an interior decorator or a painter or a carpenter, or that you are a bad cook, or that your food is not what she is eating it and tells you just how she cooks the dish on which you pride yourself.

If you have a good-looking husband with a foot that is inclined to wander, she never fails to tell you in the midst of a crowd that she saw him lurching with a beautiful blonde and the wonderful old times she had with him when he was a young man. She tells you that people say that you spoil your children, and that they are the worst brats in the neighborhood. She asks you if you don't think that the frail little daughter, who is the very eye of your heart, isn't tubercular. She says that she looks that way to her, and didn't your Great-Aunt Susan die of the disease?

Yes, we all know the woman who prides herself upon saying just exactly what she thinks, helps us. And, perhaps, the hardest thing for her to put up with is her self-complacency. After having trampled our vanity into the dust and stabbed us to the heart by telling us things we would rather die than hear, she has the nerve to camouflage her cruelties by representing them as truth and honesty.

That her strictures are often the truth doesn't excuse her for wounding one after another. Maybe most of us are repeaters, who tell our favorite stories over and over again, but why interrupt us just at the point of our best joke by reminding us that that is an old one that we have heard before? Perhaps few of us are Lily Ponses or Lawrence Tibbets, but who chafes the maiden and youth who have consented to be the subject of their attention to their four minutes of glory? Why tell her parents that their infant prodigies are just plain ordinary children, who would not be noticed if they were not? Why tell a girl in a world that is full of brief and trouble, puncture another's little balloons and take away from them the harmless little vanities that really make life endurable?

If it be a lack of truth and honesty to refrain from humiliating and wounding others by not calling attention to their faults and defects, then let us cultivate deceit as one of the major virtues, for as a philosopher said long ago, "Not even the most admired and admired us could destroy if he knew what his friends and acquaintances really thought about him."

One of the strange things about the woman who prides herself on saying exactly what she thinks is that she never seems to have any kindly or admiring thoughts about people. If she thinks you are looking well, or young, or pretty, or that you have an adorable frock, she never mentions it. Neither does she tell you that she thinks you are a wonderful person of a club, or that she doesn't know how the church would get along without you. Nor does she ever tell you what a good, wise mother you have been and that your children do you honor. All of her thoughts seem to be picked in vinegar, with never a sweet one among them.

And another queer thing about the woman who is so strong about speaking the plain, blunt, honest truth to people is that she can't stand it when they give her the same. If she is told that she is looking well, or young, or pretty, or that she has an adorable frock, she never mentions it. Neither does she tell you that she thinks you are a wonderful person of a club, or that she doesn't know how the church would get along without you. Nor does she ever tell you what a good, wise mother you have been and that your children do you honor. All of her thoughts seem to be picked in vinegar, with never a sweet one among them.

Nothing could be more absurd than the contention that to be truthful and honest we must not have any regard for the feelings of others. We are being hypocritical when we pass over lively things about them that do not hit our fancy and are even evil and polite to those whom we really do not like. We are merely being hypocritical when we pass over lively things about them that do not hit our fancy and are even evil and polite to those whom we really do not like. We are merely being hypocritical when we pass over lively things about them that do not hit our fancy and are even evil and polite to those whom we really do not like.

Raising A Family

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

We have been dwelling on morals for several days, and naturally you are wondering if I am going to mention sex. Yes, it had better have a place in the world of the child.

Let us begin with the little child. One day he or she will be asked questions with which questions that embarrass you.

They shouldn't. They are as natural as breathing. Explain to your child that there are two kinds of everything that lives. One called male and one called female.

O R. Barton: "Like any other female and there isn't any secret about it. I believe it best for small children to be supervised at all times."

Any knowledge they get about sex should be open and above board. It is a poor beginning to have them associate this difference with opportunity and secrecy. I doubt whether there is much undue curiosity among urban children who go about undressed. These young natives seem to be completely unconscious of their own or each other's nudity.

Many mothers shrink from thinking of their children as sex beings. They are proud of the boy, and want him to have all the characteristics of a real boy. They love their little girls and revel in the dependence and sweetness of the female child. But they stop here and refuse to face the fact that in every child there are the incipient elements of maturity and the embryo of reproduction. This is all natural and inevitable, and they really are in their hearts. But, it is terrible that as they grow such a stand makes it doubly hard for the parent to acknowledge the inevitable, unless she has owned up to it from the first.

There is wisdom in telling the child as much as he or she can happily understand about birth and sex. It is not the mother's duty to tell all. They rob life of romance and beauty. Early puberty is time for that. And the telling can be put in the hands of a responsible, disinterested person, your mother, for example, that it will determine your place with your child.

A Blend Of Simple Stitches

By Phyllis Belmont

Blend bright and subtle shades of silk, wool or cotton for this exquisite wall panel that is so easy to construct.

Patten 612 contains a transfer pattern of a picture 14 inches wide by 10 inches high. It is made of silk or wool. To obtain this pattern send 20 cents to the Edmonton Bulletin, Household Arts Dept., Edmonton, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTEN NUMBER.

The manner of explaining is important. Watch company. Protect your small or growing children from the poisonous whisper if you are able. This is hard, I know, but do what you can. Know what goes on and who other children are. I am the last person in the world to sit and accuse. The early attitude to sex, the secret, the vulgarities, set, is an unwholesome moral attitude that will affect later life.

Let the children mix at all ages. I mean by this, to let girls and boys play together. Little children, children and adolescents. Good health games and social gatherings, supervised wisely, establish good fellowship. They see each other as normal human beings. They are not sex beings. Up to seventeen there should be a certain camaraderie. Over that age, the children should be treated as adults. They should be treated as adults. They should be treated as adults.

"Over The Teacups"

Twenty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

IN THE PAST few years the public has referred to Mary Pickford as "Our Girl" or "America's Sweetheart" and the like, but one of its "Colonial" Marys was Pickford's mother, who lived in the 18th century.

Field Artillery, who she recently adopted that splendid beauty of young America at Camp Kearney, Canada, who lived in the 18th century. She was a 100-mile beauty, to her garden, and also a handsome actress, who lived in the 18th century. "Dear Mr. Culbertson: Some interesting hands turned up in a casual four-championship in Pittsburgh last weekend. The enclosed is one of them. I make no claim to being a ranking player, and am not writing in appeal critical, but the fact remains that we had a wonderful chance with this hand and missed."

The bidding:
North Pass South Pass
West Pass East Pass
North Pass South Pass
West Pass East Pass

After a long search, a bit sloppy, I was West and had a very good hand. My own hand was, I suppose, all right considering the original pass, but his distribution was particularly good. I was in a bit of a hurry to make a bid, and I bid BASEBALL FEATURES SOUTH SIDE CELEBRATION

Calgary Athletes Go Major Awards

TO the thundering roar of "They're off!" from the throats of some 3,500 racing fans at the South Side athletic grounds, the South Side businessmen held one of their most successful Dominion Day celebrations yesterday afternoon. It was the 46th annual celebration.

One of the most varied programs ever presented at a South Side exhibition was on display. Running horse races with pari-mutuel betting held the spotlight, while the graceful rhythm of dancers vied with the cream of Alberta's track and field athletes for attention.

Small prizes were the order of the day as the public enjoyed the thundering across the finish line almost every race. O. B. Day paid first prize of the winner, paying $12.40 to win a $100 ticket. The clever riding Southwestern won top honors with two winners, a second and two thirds. He lost Versa Loan home in the third and came right back in the fourth, bringing Brown Betty down in first.

Calgary athletes grabbed seven senior provincial track and field titles at the South Side exhibition yesterday as the Alberta championships were run off in conjunction with Dominion Day celebrations. Sid Ashmead captured the mile and a half mile event while Thelma Norwood topped the 100-yard dash and running broad jump titles.

But individual honors went to Ben Bradshaw of Edmonton, who stopped the parade of Calgary athletes by winning the men's running broad jump, 100- and 200-yard dashes, and the 100- and 200-yard sprints. Other Edmonton winners were Vic Falkenberg, who won the men's running high jump crown, and Governor Swingle, who took the women's running high jump crown.

Although the results of the events showed a mixed picture, the figures, they were well off provincial records were. Even Ed Ashmead, who Calgary did a fine runner, who clipped five seconds off the mile record in the Highland games, held on the same grounds May 24, was a several seconds off his own mark.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

by WILLIAM KERGUSON

CUCKOOS

IN AMERICA ARE VERY DIFFERENT FROM EUROPEAN BIRDS OF THAT NAME...IN APPEARANCE, HABITS AND SONG! THE FAMOUS "CUCKOO" CALL IS ENTIRELY MISSING IN THE AMERICAN FORMS.

SOME FOLKS CALL THE CUCKOOS "RAIN CROWS" AND BELIEVE THAT THEIR GUTTURAL CRIES ARE A PREDICTION OF RAIN.

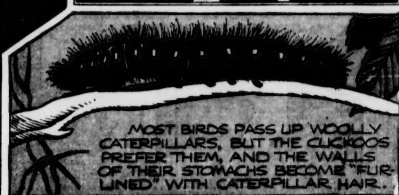

THE TWO AMERICAN SPECIES, THE YELLOW-BILLED (ABOVE), AND THE BLACK-BILLED (LEFT), ARE VERY SIMILAR... THE GREATEST DIFFERENCE BEING THE BILLS, AND CERTAIN MARKINGS ON THE TAILS. THEIR GHOSTLY MOVEMENTS THROUGH THE TREES GIVE THEM AN AIR OF MYSTERY.

UNLIKE THE EUROPEAN CUCKOO, WHICH LAYS ITS EGGS IN THE NESTS OF OTHER BIRDS, THE AMERICAN SPECIES BUILD THEIR OWN HOMES.

BECAUSE OF THEIR RONDNESS FOR THE DESTRUCTIVE TENT CATERPILLARS, THE BIRDS ARE MOST DESERVING OF MAN'S PROTECTION.

MOST BIRDS PASS UP WOOLLY CATERPILLARS, BUT THE CUCKOOS PREFER THEM, AND THE WALLS OF THEIR STOMACHS BECOME "FUR-LINED" WITH CATERPILLAR HAIR.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

By Blosser

DANNY HAS ORDERED HIS MUTINIOUS CREW ASHORE...

I GUESS THEY WON'T GIVE US ANY TROUBLE! THEY HAVEN'T ANY GUNS!

MAYBE THEY'RE GONNA WAIT FOR DARKNESS TO FALL!

WE'LL JUST WATCH AND SEE WHAT THEY DO! THE ISLAND IS SMALL...THEY CAN'T GET OUT OF SIGHT!

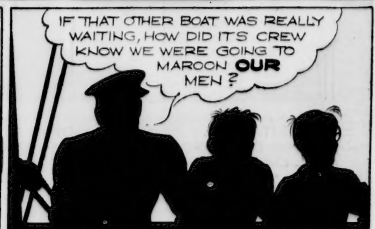

THAT'S STRANGE! THEY WERE PICKED UP IMMEDIATELY BY A POWER BOAT! THEY'RE HEADED TOWARD THAT MOTOR CRUISER!

I CAN'T FIGURE THAT OUT! IT ALMOST SEEMED AS IF IT WERE PLANNED!

JUST LIKE CLOCKWORK!

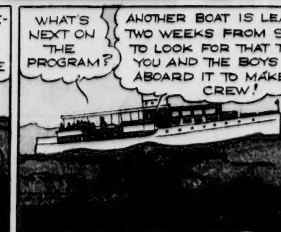

IF THAT OTHER BOAT WAS REALLY WAITING, HOW DID ITS CREW KNOW WE WERE GOING TO MAROON OUR MEN?

MEANWHILE: ON THE OTHER BOAT...

HELLO, BARNEY!! NOT A THING! WE PRE-DO THEY SUSPECT TENDED TO MUTINY, ANYTHING? AND THEY STUCK US ON THAT ISLAND LIKE WE PLANNED!

WHAT'S NEXT ON THE PROGRAM?

ANOTHER BOAT IS LEAVING IN TWO WEEKS FROM SAN PEDRO TO LOOK FOR THAT TREASURE... YOU AND THE BOYS GO ABOARD IT TO MAKE A CREW!

AIN'T YOU AFRAID WE MIGHT BUMP INTO DANNY'S BOAT AGAIN?

NOT IN TWO WEEKS, HE'LL BE GONE...HE'LL GET DISCOURAGED...LIKE ALL THE OTHERS! HA-HA...YEAH...LIKE THE OTHERS!!
